Should an Editor Speak the Truth? And we do- as to the innocence of the accused not know how any expression for or against Bryan could effect the election one way or another.

The editor of this newspaper, like nearly all other South Carolinians, will vote for Brymany men in the State who, at heart wish that he may be defeated.

Speaking for this editor personally I do Clinton, and perhaps other towns, where it not want to see or to hear of any Democrat was thought the price was more reasonable getting into position where he may fill up than at Abbeville. t he Panama canal, or throw away the Philli If any officer or owner of stock in a cotton

The editor of this newspaper, speaking for himself, wants no general revision of the

"Sores."

Quite a number of our respected contempor raries taking the cue, as we presume, from a recent presentment of our grand jury are disoussing the sore shoulders of the animal that has been adopted as the Democratic emblem. The donkey is a long suffering and an uncomplaining animal. But he is not alone in suffering from sores. The sores that threw our grand jury into conniption fits, we are told, were about the size of a man's thumb print. But admitting that they were as big as asaddle blanket, and the suffering severe, they are as nothing when compared to the little harefooted hov's sore tog, that has not a lone of an animal that he was sick, and had no money, with which to pay in many years. The great fertility and wenderful crop yields from irrigated lands, and the favorable erms the Government offers settlers, warrants the belief that before the year closes not a single farm will be without its entry-man. These farms are located in North Dakota, Montana, Wyoming and Nevada. A letter addressed to The Statistician, U. S. Reclamation Service; Washington, D. Pretty Lots.

Abbeville has many pretty lots that ar adorned by attractive growing plants and green grass. In none have more labor been bestowed than on that of Mr. W. W. Brad ley on the Due West Street. As we understand. Mr. Bradley furnishes the sinews of war, and Mrs. Bradley furnishes the energy and the good taste that combine to make beautiful the yard in front of their nice dwelling. The dwelling, inside, has been worked over, and the outside has received a coat of paint. The flower pit has been emptied and the nicest of ornamental shrubs bushes, or other things, with whose names we are not familiar, are to be seen on as pret ty a ground as you would wish to look at, Having a pretty green lot, with the nicest growing things, makes the place attractive, while as nice a lot of children as could b found in the realm, play upon the garden to the pleasure of passers-by, and to the delight of fond parents who dream of a glorious future for the scions of the Bradley tree.

Don't Shock the Record's Modesty. The Columbia Record of a recent date protests against the "sheath gowns" that 'have appeared in Washington. It is hoped that

Col. W. C. shaw Makes Suggestions. Lowndesville, S. C., June 21, 1908. Editor Press and Banner:
The recent refreshing rains have helped everything and the crops are growing so nicely that the bearts of the farmers are recates upon which ball was granted to his slayer.

We note also what the Anderson Mail says about the attorney for the slayer of George Clinkscales being a brother of the Associate Justice who granted the ball.

No one stands higher before the people than does the attorney for George Clinkscales, but we submit that he erred in act which may seem to compromise his highly esteemed brother, or at least subject him to the possibility of criticism. We believe the action of a brother in going before a Judge for ball is, not without precedent, but we believe such action has not been without disapproval.

If the slayer of George Clinkscales was entitled to ball, application should have been made before another Judge than the brother of his attorney.

Judge Gary, we know, could not be inspected by the feet that his brother was a change.

A GREAT LAND OPFNING.

Washington, D. C., June 22, 1908.
A number of exceptional opportunities are now being offered by the Government for enterprising and intelligent farmers to secure choice farms on a dozen'or more large irrigation projects which are nearing completion. Owing to the rapid narrowing of the limits of the unoccupied public domain, it is doubtful if these opportunities will ever occur again, it is probable, therefore, that the West will see one of the greatest influxes of homeseekers in 1908 that has been witnessed in many years.
